

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr. Ping Chen, a native of Anhui Province, earned a Western medical doctorate at the Shandong Medical University with a specialization in cardiology. Subsequently she received a degree in Chinese medicine with a specialty in Chinese herbal therapy from the Shandong Traditional Chinese Medicine University. Upon completion of her studies, she was made a professor at both Shandong Medical University and Shandong TCM University. In China she was widely known and highly regarded for her command of English and her skills in translating texts on Chinese medicine. From 1992 to 1998 she translated and published over one hundred books and innumerable articles on Chinese medicine to facilitate the studies of foreign students visiting China.

Dr. Chen presently treats patients and hosts seminars at the Yi Ling Medical Center, a leading medical clinic for the application of and instruction in Chinese medicine in the United States. An energetic and resourceful teacher and clinician, she is favored with respect and admiration from her students and patients.